6. OPPORTUNITIES TO JOIN PEER SOCIETIES Expand your professional network by selecting one or more of these member options!

Optical Society of Korea (OSK) The Optical Society of Korea (OSK) is the largest optics-focused society in Korea. The Society's activities include: member services, multi-national technical conferences, publications including JOSK, research/planning projects and industrial standardization.

Regular Membership = $25.00 Student Membership = $17.00

Society for Applied Spectroscopy (SAS) The Society for Applied Spectroscopy (SAS) advances and disseminates knowledge and information concerning the art and science of spectroscopy, and other allied sciences through technical meetings, publications and member services. SAS members receive an online subscription to Applied Spectroscopy (AS) which is published by SAS.

Regular Online Membership = $35.00 Student Online Membership = $15.00

Optical Society of India (OSI) The purpose of the Optical Society of India (OSI) is to promote and diffuse the knowledge of optics in all of its branches pure and applied. Members receive a free subscription to the Journal of Optics.

Regular Membership = $25.00
